Copyright is owned by the Author of the thesis. Permission is given for a copy to be downloaded by an individual for the purpose of research and private study only. The thesis may not be reproduced elsewhere without the permission of the Author.
DOUBLE VISION:

THE EXPERIENCE OF

MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS

THROUGH THE EYES OF WOMEN
DOUBLE VISION:

THE EXPERIENCE OF MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS

THROUGH THE EYES OF WOMEN

A thesis presented in partial fulfilment of the requirements for the degree of Master of Social Work at Massey University

PAMELA MARGARET HIGHET

1999
ABSTRACT

Double vision is a common symptom of Multiple Sclerosis (MS). This thesis is also about double vision in other ways. It is concerned with the perceptions of women with MS of the double discrimination, which they experience, both as women and as disabled people. It is also about the disjuncture between medical views of MS and the lived experiences of women with MS.

Seven women with MS were interviewed in depth for this research. Despite considerable diversity in MS experiences, a number of main themes emerged from these interviews. These included years of uncertainty and stress prior to receiving a definite diagnosis of MS, poor communication on the part of health professionals, high financial costs and difficulties associated with MS and the toll on family life, including 'caregiver burnout' and divorce.

Many of the difficulties experienced by these women could have been eased considerably with more information and practical and financial support. The aim of the thesis is to highlight these themes in order to inform people newly diagnosed with MS, their caregivers and families, health and social work professionals and policy makers about some of the main issues and needs experienced by women with MS.
CONTENTS

Abstract
Acknowledgements

Chapter One  Double Vision  6
Chapter Two  Research Design and Methodology  16
Chapter Three  The Enigma: What is MS?  30
Towards a definition of MS  31
Towards an understanding of MS  40
Chapter Four  Insights into the experience of MS  52
The first research question:
"Would you like to share some of your Experiences of MS with me?"
Chapter Five  The second research question:  71
"What would enhance your quality of life?"
Chapter Six  A vision realised: The MS practice Model  91
Conclusion  Double vision in other ways  103
An Afterword  108
Appendix 1  Transcript of the researcher  110
Appendix 11  Five principles for feminist social work practice  118
Appendix 111  Application to the human ethics committee  133
Appendix 1V  Consent form  141
Appendix V  Information Sheet  142
Bibliography  144
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am deeply indebted to the six other women participants without whom this research would not have taken place. Our shared tears and laughter will always be a part of me.

The invaluable source of support and encouragement provided by my two supervisors Mary Nash and Celia Briar, who allowed me to take this research at my own pace. Their own academic achievements were a constant source of motivation for me.

The following people at Massey University all played a part in facilitating my greater understanding of the research process:

Robyn Munford, Martin Sullivan, Ruth Anderson, Gwen Ellis and Janet Milne;

John and Pamela Gibbs, who would encourage me with love and support

J and D Hunn who provided ongoing support.

The Wellington Multiple Sclerosis Society and Ruth Vincent, Information Officer for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

DEDICATION

To my three sons, Duncan, Hamish and Andrew who as my primary caregivers sacrificed an enormous amount of love, time and effort towards helping my academic aspirations to become a reality.

To Laurie, who loved me in spite of my thesis?

And to my late father Allan Hight and mother Paddy Hight, who did not live to see the end result but always believed in what I was doing.