Copyright is owned by the Author of the thesis. Permission is given for a copy to be downloaded by an individual for the purpose of research and private study only. The thesis may not be reproduced elsewhere without the permission of the Author.
An Exploration of Influences on the Careers of Professional Women Planners

A 152.803 research report presented in partial fulfilment of the requirements of the Master of Business Studies at Massey University, Albany, New Zealand

Phillipa Jean Campbell
2016
Abstract

The literature which explores key influences on women’s career pathways suggests women’s careers are a blend of the work and non-work facets of their lives. The kaleidoscope career model (Mainiero & Sullivan, 2005, 2006) portrays the attributes of authenticity, balance and challenge as constants in a woman’s life and drivers which move constantly to shape her career at any particular point in its trajectory. The model seeks to explain why women ‘opt-out’ or work in different ways throughout their career.

There is little knowledge or research on professional women planners and the influences on their careers. The report explores key influences using thematic analysis to analyse interview data from six participants. The results show professional women planners are adept at crafting their careers and taking into account their own particular objectives, needs and life criteria. They are able to work in a range of ways throughout their careers, from the corporate and local government sectors through to running their own consultancy practices in the private sector. The report finds they are able to do this without ‘opting out’, and integrate the facets of the kaleidoscope career model to take into account their own particular circumstances.
Acknowledgements

I am indebted to every interview participant who generously gave up their time to talk and share their knowledge about their career path with me.

I would like to thank my supervisor Dr Kaye Thorn who immediately saw what I needed to know and enabled me to develop a framework for understanding those things that have long puzzled me.

I wish acknowledge my family, in particular my mother Janet Luoni, and my daughter Helen Campbell for listening to me and for their encouragement and inspiration. My thanks also go to my sister Stella Morgan, a planner, for sharing her story with me throughout our respective careers. In the wings are the men of my future, my sons James and Innes Campbell and my proof reader Brett Hodge, who have also played their parts in informing this work.

Last but not least, I would like to thank my husband Angus Campbell for always believing in me.
Table of Contents

Chapter One  Introduction .................................................................................................................... 4
 1.1 Research Objective ......................................................................................................................... 5
 1.2 The Structure of the Report ............................................................................................................... 6

Chapter 2 Literature Review .................................................................................................................... 7
 2.1 Overview ....................................................................................................................................... 7
 2.2 Career Models ................................................................................................................................. 7
 2.3 Women’s Career Models ..................................................................................................................... 10
 2.4 Authenticity ..................................................................................................................................... 16
 2.5 History .......................................................................................................................................... 20
 2.6 Influences ....................................................................................................................................... 22
    2.6.1 Influence of Family ...................................................................................................................... 22
    2.6.2 Influence of Relationships ............................................................................................................ 25
    2.6.3 Influence of care-giving responsibilities and re-entering the work force ................................... 27
    2.6.4 A Sustainable Career .................................................................................................................. 29
    2.6.5 Influence of Leadership ............................................................................................................... 30
    2.6.7 Influence of Aging ....................................................................................................................... 32
 2.7 The Context of Planning as a Profession .......................................................................................... 33

Chapter 3 Research Methodology .......................................................................................................... 36
 3.1 Epistemology .................................................................................................................................. 36
 3.2 Research Paradigm - Interpretive ...................................................................................................... 37
 3.3 Research Method - Qualitative ......................................................................................................... 37
 3.4 Research Type – Exploratory ............................................................................................................. 38
 3.5 Semi structured Interviews .............................................................................................................. 39
 3.6 Sampling ....................................................................................................................................... 39
 3.7 Limitations of the approach .............................................................................................................. 40
 3.8 Other Approaches Considered ......................................................................................................... 40
 3.9 Procedure - Pilot study ..................................................................................................................... 40
References

Appendices

Appendix A  Interview Guide  71
Appendix B  Interview Questions  73
Appendix C  Low Risk Notification Approval Massey University  74
Appendix D  Kaleidescope Diagrams for Each Participant  75

List of Figures

Figure 1: Kaleidescope Career Model  13
Figure 2: Levels of Authenticity (Hall & Mao 2015)  17
Figure 3: Narrative Framework (Maddox & Daine 2016)  31

List of Tables

Table 1: Participant Details  39