THE ROAD TO EMPOWERMENT:
Facilitating the Participation of Parents of Children with Special Needs in Malaysia

A thesis presented in partial fulfilment of the requirements for the degree of Master of Philosophy in Development Studies at Massey University

Solomon John
1996
CONTENTS

ABSTRACT

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

INTRODUCTION
- Introduction ........................................... 1
- Rationale for the Study ............................. 6
- Purpose of the Study ................................. 6
- Structure of the Study ............................... 7

LITERATURE REVIEW ................................ 9
- Introduction ........................................ 9
- Malaysia and the Caring Society .................. 10
- Development from Below ............................ 13
- Parent Empowerment Through Education .......... 19
- Summary of chapter ................................ 25

BETHANY HOME ....................................... 28
- Introduction ........................................ 28
- Origins ............................................... 29
- New Programmes .................................... 31
- Conclusion .......................................... 34

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY .............................. 36
- Introduction ........................................ 36
- Methodological Rationale ......................... 37
- Research Methods .................................. 37
- Population ......................................... 40
- Instruments ........................................ 40
- Pilot Study ......................................... 48
- Data Collection .................................... 50
- Limitation of the Study ......................... 51
- Conclusion ......................................... 52

FINDINGS .............................................. 53
- Introduction ....................................... 53
- Results of the Instruments ...................... 54
- Conclusion ......................................... 83

DISCUSSION .......................................... 85

SUMMARY AND CONCLUSIONS ......................... 93

REFERENCES .......................................... 97

APPENDICES ......................................... 105
ABSTRACT

This study involves the design, development and evaluation of a parent training curriculum for parents of children with special needs in Malaysia. The objective of this programme was to empower parents through meaningful participation in the process of content identification, implementation and evaluation of the entire programme. The study was conducted at Bethany Home, a centre for children and adults with special needs, situated in a rural town of West Malaysia with an estimated population of 40,000 people mostly of a lower socio economic status. The study was prompted by a need for active parent participation. The researcher is a former director of the centre.

The analysis of the data suggests that information sharing through participation is the road to empowerment for parents of children with special needs in a rural setting. As a result of the programme, teacher-parent interaction has improved and the setting up of a network for parents is imminent.
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I dedicate this thesis to Bethany Home and all the parents of children with special needs who participated in this project. I sincerely appreciate the assistance and guidance provided by my supervisor Prof. Dr. Overton and my friends, which made it possible for me to complete this thesis on time. Special thanks are due to Peter Young and Dignity and Services, Jeyasingh and Maniam for their contribution to this project. Last but not least, I would like to acknowledge my family, Kay, Tim, Jacob and Emma for their patience, love and support throughout this period.

Your attitude should be the same as that of Christ Jesus: Who being in very nature God did not consider equality with God something to be grasped, but made Himself nothing, taking the very nature of a servant being made in human likeness.

Philippians 2:5-7