Making Space: Speleology

An exegesis presented with exhibition as fulfillment of the requirements for thesis:

Master of Fine Arts
At Massey University, Wellington, New Zealand

Sian Torrington
2010
Table of Contents

Title Page .................................................. 3
Table of Contents ........................................ 5
Abstract ..................................................... 7
List of illustrations ...................................... 9-13
Acknowledgements ...................................... 15-17
Introduction .............................................. 21-27
Chapters;
Method; Excavation of metaphor, the role of writing ..... 29-47
Using the body; definition of terms ................... 49-54
Method of making; only mass makes magic ........... 55-76
The body making meaning – feeling language ......... 77-112
The Heroic Expressive Body, problematised .......... 113-124
Privacy and proximity; making active meaning ...... 125-146
Finding open places – photographic research ....... 147-170
Process, maintenance and activity ................. 171-190
Conclusion; Making your own way; I can build my own way out 191-226
An example; will you ride with me? ................... 228-239
References ............................................... 240-245
Index of images ......................................... 246-255
Bibliography ............................................. 256-262
Originality Declaration ............................... 263
Abstract:

This essay documents a year of exploring how to continue to be creative, experimental and intuitive within an art institution. It provides a context and thus academic shelter for a non-linear, experimental process of making drawings, sculpture and site-specific work. The essay has three layers; the contextual document, images which show the process of making, as well as a narrative written in experimental poetry which describes the embodied process of making through collaged journal writing. The images are interspersed through the essay, while the poetry provides an alternative narrative and is printed on the back pages of the essay.

‘Building’ is used as an active metaphor for the creative process, as well as buildings as sites for research and installation of adaptive sculptures. Building as a metaphor for unchanging narratives will be contrasted with artists whose work challenges the unitary nature of a functional building through their interventions. Using the body to make meaning is discussed in a feminist context, as an alternative this model to linear, rational thinking. This also questions and problematizes the heroic male artist body.

Performing the making through a female body will be discussed and issues of privacy and proximity covered. A potential solution to these issues will be explored in using abstraction to create active meaning, thus implicating the body of the audience as well as the artist.
List of Illustrations

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Illustration</th>
<th>Title/Description</th>
<th>Page no.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Fig. 1</td>
<td>Author, Wairarapa Farmhouse</td>
<td>23</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fig. 2</td>
<td>Author, Studio desk shots</td>
<td>35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fig. 3</td>
<td>Author, Studio collage 1</td>
<td>39</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fig. 4</td>
<td>Author, Studio collage 2</td>
<td>41</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fig. 5</td>
<td>Author, Studio collage 3</td>
<td>43</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fig. 6</td>
<td>Author, The Shed, Wairarapa</td>
<td>53</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fig. 7</td>
<td>Schapero, Distorted Circletrap Monsterheads, (all colours)</td>
<td>59</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>these are the empty shells of the heads of the circletrap monsters that were never able to discover the silence and slowness in order to escape. They now become the ways out of the circletrap for those that do find peace, where everything slows so that you can actually see what is happening around you. The floating monsterheads are now the first key, when you see one that faces you, if you are able to, simply slide your head inside the hollowed monsterhead.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fig. 8</td>
<td>Schapero, Almost the exact feeling on has when staring at the blinded by the light for too long just before anything is about to happen, similar to the images that you see when closing your eyes and pressing into your eyeballs</td>
<td>61</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fig. 9</td>
<td>Author, Gestural Sculptures, Studio shot</td>
<td>63-65</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fig. 10</td>
<td>Author, Movable nests and birds</td>
<td>69</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fig. 11</td>
<td>Sze, Second means of Egress</td>
<td>73</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fig. 12</td>
<td>Sze, Seamless</td>
<td>75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fig. 13</td>
<td>Author, Caves, studio shot</td>
<td>79</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Fig. 14, Author, Cave (1) 81
Fig. 15, Author, Cave (2) 83
Fig. 16, Author, Vacuum drawings 91
Fig. 17, Author, Ceiling details 93
Fig. 18, Author, Objects, studio shot 95
Fig. 19, Author, Drawings from objects (1) 99
Fig. 20, Author, Drawings from objects (2) 101
Fig. 21, Author, Corridor Drawing (1) 103
Fig. 22, Author, Corridor Drawing (2) 105
Fig. 23, Author, Corridor Drawing (details) 107
Fig. 24, Author, Engine Room drawing (details) 109
Fig. 25, Author, Drawing Hand 111
Fig. 26, Author, Cleaning Up 117
Fig. 27, Author, Studio Shots 119
Fig. 28, Author, Studio Cave 127
Fig. 29, Author, Cave experiment 131
Fig. 30, Author, Collapsed Tent (detail 1) 133
Fig. 31, Author, Collapsed Tent (detail 2) 135
Fig. 32, Author, Collapsed Tent (detail 3) 141
Fig. 33, Author, Collapsed Tent (detail 4,5) 143
Fig. 34, Author, Collapsed Tent (detail 6) 145
Figs. 35-42, Author, House Research 147-161
Figs. 43-45, Author, Studio shots house research 163-165
Fig. 46, Potrc, Urban 169
Fig. 47, Potrc, Sketches, construction and installation of Hybrid House – Caracas, West Bank, West Palm Beach 169

Fig. 48, Matta-Clark, A W-Hole House – Roof Top Atrium 179

Fig. 49, Matta-Clark, Bronx Floors – Threshold 181

Fig. 50, Author, Ceiling shot 183

Fig. 51, Stockholder, Catchers Hollow 185

Fig. 52, Stockholder, Part of metal chair, wool blanket, cardboard, metal studs hinged to the wall, paint, stuffed animal 189

Fig. 53-60, Author, Speleology 196-200

Fig. 61-101, Author, All meaning is the line you draw 201-225

Fig. 102, Blagdon, The Healing Machine (interior site detail, Garfield Table, Neb.) 230

Fig. 103, The Healing Machine (untitled individual component) 232

Fig. 104, Blagdon, The Healing Machine (untitled individual component) 234

Fig. 105, EmilyXYZ, Syd Barrett Part 2 237
Acknowledgements

There are many people without which this adventure would never have been completed. It has taken, like all ventures into the unknown, a great deal of faith, guts, energy, stubbornness, hot dinners, swims, deep breaths, coffee breaks and reminders that other people have leapt before.

I would like to thank all of the artists and writers in this thesis and the many others I have not been able to mention. For making your work, and going first to hold the light.

For invaluable and indomitable encouragement, belief and vision; Hinemoana Baker.
For looking to the hills; Poppy Moore.
For safe shelter; Mark Newdick and Martin Caulback.
For listening and riding with me; Deborah Barton and Andrew Ross.
For steadfast advice, help and most of all your excitement; Mike Heynes.
For feeling it; Jack Trolove.
For everything else; Susie Poole, Jane Blackmoore, Liz Allen, Tessa Rain, Therese Lloyd and Lee Posner, Leila and Cara Torrington

For teaching me the meaning of adventure in the first place, and always being passionately encouraging; Carl Torrington.
For teaching me how to make things in the first place, and reveling in messy experimentation; Pamela Torrington.
A thousand blessings on my supervisor Simon Morris, who encouraged, listened, spent the time, believed in the work and stuck with it.

Thank you.

For getting me back to drawing, encouragement, seeing strengths, honesty and wise guidance; my supervisor Jeremy Diggle.

And for returning me to my patina, materials and reminding me of the value of dust; my supervisor John Di Stefano.

Thanks also to Richard Reddaway, Martin Patrick, Maddie Leach, Karin Van Roosmalen, David Cross, Anne Noble, Bryce Galloway, Emma Febreve-Richards, Helena Hunt and Gerra Rameka, for all of your support through the year.

Grateful thanks to Massey University for awarding me the Masterate scholarship, which meant I could dive in full time for the whole year.

Grateful thanks to all of my fellow MFA students, who have provided invaluable support of all kinds throughout the process. And for being a woman’s best friend and reliable walking buddy; Chance dog.
A person is only a case
A holder for all manner of things
A random arrangement of idiocy and glory
Sometimes a barrage of artistic light
Sometimes an embarrassment, a dismaying puddle of slush
Sometimes a nobody,
Fading into the crowd or the distance the welfare office the supermarket
the laundromat, the library and sometimes marvelous as a god, all in one
all in one lifetime
all in one life.
(Emily XYZ, 2004, p.65).