Copyright is owned by the Author of the thesis. Permission is given for a copy to be downloaded by an individual for the purpose of research and private study only. The thesis may not be reproduced elsewhere without the permission of the Author.
Pacific women's netball participation in Aotearoa/New Zealand: Factors influencing participation

A thesis presented in partial fulfilment of the requirements for the degree of Masters in Business Studies In Sports Management

At Massey University, Turitea, Palmerston North New Zealand

Tasileta Teevale
2001
Abstract

The purpose of this study was to explore the netball experiences of Pacific women in Aotearoa/New Zealand. Specific objectives were to identify reasons for participation, socialisation agents and the link between ethnicity and sport. A mixed-method approach was utilised to gather data. 157 netballers (age range 17-56+) completed a modified version of the Participation Motivation Questionnaire (Gill, Gross & Huddleston, 1983). Treatment of the scores by principal components analysis yielded seven factors: Aspects of Netball/Health & Fitness, Challenge, Social Status, Affiliation, Energy Release, Skills Development, and Family Affiliation. Focus group data (3 groups) confirmed the family as the most significant socialisation agent during initial involvement, and the salience of self-motivation for current participation. In addition, netballers articulated the existence of a "Pacific" style of play, which the author hypothesised, reflects the affects of a unique cultural background and sporting environment. The key implication of this research is the need for sport managers to deliver sport opportunities that meet the diverse needs of its multi-ethnic and multicultural participants in order to ensure continued participation. Areas for future research are identified.
Acknowledgements

First, I must pay tribute to the women whose words have made this project possible - Pacific netballers in Aotearoa. I hope that I have served your thoughts and aspirations well. You have kindly allowed me to be part of your experience. It was a pleasure to be part of the process.

Many people have helped me with this study.

I gratefully acknowledge the support and encouragement of my chief Supervisor Dr. Sarah Leberman. I truly appreciate your professionalism and worthy advice throughout the project. It was an honour to work with you. Thank you to my second supervisor, Camilla Obel from Canterbury University, for providing a sociological insight into my work.

Thank you to ex-Netball New Zealand High Performance Manager Betty Carrick who helped spark the initial ideas for the project, and to Marina Hirst, who provided Netball NZ information.

Thank you to Saena Herman Ah-Kuoi and PEETO staff [Pasefika Education and Employment Training Organisation] for patiently giving me the time and space to complete this work. Most of all, I would like to thank you for providing me inspiration. Your dedication and commitment for our people’s welfare has been heartening and provided me with the motivation to make my best contribution.

I would also like to acknowledge the help of the Maori Studies Department at Canterbury University for bailing me out of my technological nightmare. It would not have been possible to complete this project on time, without your kindness.
This thesis project would not have been possible without the help of my trusty assistant, who took on such roles as; ‘fieldwork research assistant’, ‘literature researcher’, ‘photocopier’, ‘technology support officer’, ‘resource supplier’, ‘draft editor’, ‘refreshment provider’ and most importantly, ‘listener’. You have been my rock throughout this project Matiu, faafetai tele lava.

It has been a long and arduous road. I apologise to all family and friends who have been neglected throughout this most alienating and unsocial process. I thank you for your patience and understanding and hope the end result is of some benefit for all.

To the Teevale aiga in Christchurch, thank you for supporting Matiu and I during our time in Christchurch, and especially to my sister’s aiga the Crawleys,- Sana, Joe, and Christian Fa'aolataga, for the ice-creams and cheesecakes over the year!

To my father Teevale Unasa Memea Fuifui and mother Ropeta, grandparents Toetagata and Tupu Teevale, and SeeSeei Lei-Sam thank you for encouraging me, for the prayers and for raising me well, and last but not least, brothers Junior and Pena for keeping me grounded.

This thesis is dedicated to the memory of my grandfather
Sing Chow Asamu Lei-Sam, whose work-ethic has been an inspiration, and one
I will always strive to emulate.
Table of Contents

Abstract
Acknowledgements
Table of Contents
List of Illustrations
  List of Tables
  List of Figures

CHAPTER 1: INTRODUCTION
1
Sport in New Zealand
Women and sports in New Zealand
Pacific women and sports in New Zealand
Chapter Outline

CHAPTER 2: LITERATURE REVIEW
5
Participation Motivation Literature
  A definition
  Descriptive studies of Participation Motivation for Youth Samples
  Descriptive studies of Participation Motivation for Adult Samples
  Descriptive studies of Participation Motivation in New Zealand
Sport Socialisation Literature
  A definition
  Socialisation into sport literature
  Sport socialisation of girls and women
  Sport socialisation of minority groups
| Socialisation through sport literature | 25 |
| Socialisation out of sport literature | 27 |
| Race/Ethnicity and Sport Literature | 28 |
| Working definitions of Race and Ethnicity | 28 |
| The range of race/ethnicity and sport literature | 30 |
| Examples of stylistic differences in game forms | 32 |
| Existing theories on stylistic differences in game forms – the ‘Polynesian’ style in a New Zealand context | 34 |
| Physiologic explanations for sport performance differences | 34 |
| Psychological explanations for sport performance differences | 36 |
| Sociological explanations for sport performance differences | 37 |

Summary | 39 |

CHAPTER 3: THE SOCIAL CONTEXT | 40

Netball in New Zealand | 40

Pacific People in Aotearoa/New Zealand | 45

The ‘Pacific Island’ label | 48

CHAPTER 4: THE RESEARCH FOCUS | 51

The Research Questions | 51

Study Propositions | 52

CHAPTER 5: METHODOLOGY & ANALYSIS | 53

Research Paradigm | 53

  Qualitative versus Quantitative research inquiry – the choice of paradigm | 53

  The strengths of Qualitative and Quantitative Research | 56

  Why choose a qualitative approach | 57

Research Methodologies | 58

  Mixed-Methodology Approach | 58
Research Strategy
Why has a case study strategy been chosen for this study?

Research Design & Tools
Two-phase design procedure
Why Focus Group Interviews and not Individual Interviews?

Research Procedures
Phase one: Survey Questionnaire Administration
Phase two: Focus Group Interview Procedures

Data Analysis
For survey questionnaires
For focus group interviews

Validity / Reliability

Information Dissemination

Ethical Issues

Summary

CHAPTER 6: THE NETBALLERS
The Questionnaire Data
The Focus Group Data

CHAPTER 7: PARTICIPATION MOTIVATION
Introduction
Motives for netball participation
Principal components factor analysis
Comparisons with New Zealand netball studies
Participation motives and independent variables
Summary
CHAPTER 8: PACIFIC NETBALLERS' SOCIALISATION

Introduction

- Pacific women’s socialisation into netball
  - Agents of socialisation at the onset of netball participation
  - Agents of socialisation for current netball involvement
  - Socialisation agents across the lifespan
- How ‘Significant Others’ influence
  - The socialisation environment
  - The role of Significant Others in the netball experience
  - The socialisation process at the onset of netball participation
  - The socialisation process during the current season
  - The nature of the influence
  - Rationalising ‘Significant Others’ motivations
- Pacific women’s socialisation through netball
  - Lessons learnt and benefits gained from the netball experience
- Socialisation out of netball
  - Most difficult aspect of netball experience
- Summary

CHAPTER 9: PACIFIC NETBALL

Introduction

- The advent of ‘Pacific’ netball
  - Playing netball upon migration to New Zealand
  - Pacific netball ‘style’
  - The mental state of ‘Pacific flair’
  - Describing ‘Pacific flair’
  - Explaining ‘Pacific flair’ – a socialisation explanation
  - Explaining ‘Pacific flair’ – The Pacific sporting cultural environment
List of Illustrations

List of Tables:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Table</th>
<th>Description</th>
<th>Page Number</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Table 1</td>
<td>Categories of Open-ended Question Responses from Youth Netball and Rugby Players in Hodge &amp; Zaharopoulos Motivation Study 1991</td>
<td>13</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 2</td>
<td>Netball NZ Participation Numbers 1994-2000, in Numbers Of Teams</td>
<td>43</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 3</td>
<td>Participation Numbers in Senior competition across New Zealand Regions, shown in Total Team Numbers</td>
<td>44</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 4</td>
<td>Focus Group Participant Demographics</td>
<td>90</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 5</td>
<td>Means and Standard Deviations of Participation Motives</td>
<td>94</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 6</td>
<td>Principal Components Analysis</td>
<td>97</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 7</td>
<td>Factors Identified in Participation Motivation Studies</td>
<td>98</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 8</td>
<td>Findings of Netball Participation Motivation Studies in New Zealand</td>
<td>107</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 9</td>
<td>Agents of Socialisation at the Onset of Netball Participation</td>
<td>116</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 10</td>
<td>Agents of Socialisation for the First and Current Netball Season</td>
<td>119</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 11</td>
<td>Role of Significant Others in the First and Current Netball Seasons</td>
<td>125</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 12</td>
<td>Difficult Aspects in Netball Experience</td>
<td>133</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table H</td>
<td>Other Motives for Participation</td>
<td>197</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 11</td>
<td>Participation Motives for Island Groups</td>
<td>198</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 12</td>
<td>Participation Motives across level of netball experience, Measured through Number of Seasons played</td>
<td>199</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 13</td>
<td>Participation Motives across Regions</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 14</td>
<td>Participation Motives of Netballers according to place of birth</td>
<td>201</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 15</td>
<td>Participation Motives across Age Ranges</td>
<td>202</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Table 15: Participation Motives across Age Ranges

Table 16: Participation Motives across level of netball experience, Measured through Regional-Representative Statues

Table J1: Comparing the role of ‘Significant Others’, between first Netball season and current netball season, across different Level of netball experience measured through Number of Seasons Played

Table J2: Comparing the role of ‘Significant Others’, between first Netball season and current netball season, across different Age Groups

Table K: Ranked means of Management Questions

List of Figures:

Figure 1: A Motivational Model of Youth Sport Participation
Figure 2: A Proposed Integrated Model of Sport Motivation
Figure 3: The Three Elements of the Socialisation Process
Figure 4: Pacific Peoples Ethnic Groups in New Zealand
Figure 5: Pacific Peoples Population Distribution
Figure 6: Regions where Participants played Netball
Figure 7: Age Ranges of Netballers
Figure 8: Netballers Level of Experience, measured through Total Seasons Played
Figure 9: Representative Status of Netballers
Figure 10: Island Ethnicity of Netballers
Figure 11: Multiple Ethnic Identities Identified by Netballers
Figure 12: Netballers’ Place of Birth