Copyright is owned by the Author of the thesis. Permission is given for a copy to be downloaded by an individual for the purpose of research and private study only. The thesis may not be reproduced elsewhere without the permission of the Author.
Home from War

A thesis presented in partial fulfilment of the requirements for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Psychology at Massey University, Auckland

Veronica Hopner
2014
Abstract

Home from War is an account of which factors strengthen and aid coping with the impact of war, combat experiences and military service post-war for New Zealand veterans. While there is extensive and valuable research into combat-related stress reactions, and Posttraumatic Stress Disorder, little attention has been given to what might support veterans' abilities to cope with war experiences across the life span. Oral histories of 25 First World War veterans, 25 Second World War veterans, and 20 Vietnam War veterans were analysed to build themes from patterns in the men’s talk about coping with war and life afterwards. Thematic analysis was used to identify, analyse, interpret and summarise themes or patterns in the qualitative data. Three themes were identified. ‘Personal growth and development’ is a discussion of the psychological and emotional growth which occurred from benefits of military service. Such growth included emotional and intellectual maturity, independence and tolerance which developed from experiences of travel, general positive effects of military service and Posttraumatic Growth. ‘Social regard and status’ was found to be important to facilitate veterans’ return from war, especially genuine positive acknowledgement expressed at social and political levels through rehabilitation assistance, social respect and sites of remembrance. Social care, respect and compassion provided a sense of social connectedness necessary for psychological recovery from war. ‘Dealing with the war’ was about making sense of war. War experiences were either actively incorporated into the life story through identity practices, moral validation and processes of normalisation, or suppressed using repressive coping strategies and silence. Processes of dealing with the war were mediated by social support. Coping with war was strengthened by the social support veterans received from wives and partners, other veterans and organisations such as the RSA. Coping with war is a complex process and the effects of war are expressed across the veteran’s lifespan. Experiences of trauma and well-being were embedded through wartime service and incorporated into how veterans dealt with life post-war.
Acknowledgements

I would like to make special thanks to my supervisors, Dr Dianne Gardner and Professor Glyn Harper for your expert help, guidance and support.

I want to acknowledge Sharyn Bonham at the Massey University Library and Gillian Headifen of the Alexander Turnbull Library for their wonderful assistance with the management of the oral histories.

To my family, especially my children Mikhaila, Georgia, and Jack, thank you for your immeasurable and unfailing love, tolerance and support.

Thank you to my wonderful and supportive friends, especially Ang, Bev, Cathy, Kaye and Mei for all your care and encouragement. We finally got here!

Finally, and most importantly much gratitude is extended to all the men who participated in the oral history interviews. Without your involvement, and for many this was an enormously painful undertaking, this research would not exist. Acknowledgment and remembrance is also made for the men who fell in war, and whose deaths found their way into the oral histories. You will never be forgotten.
Table of Contents

Abstract ............................................................................................................... iii
Acknowledgements ............................................................................................... v
Table of Contents ................................................................................................. vi
List of Tables ....................................................................................................... vii
List of Appendices ................................................................................................ viii
Overview ............................................................................................................... 1

Chapter 1 – War and Military Service, Stress and Coping ........................................ 4
War and Military Service ............................................................................................ 4
Identity ................................................................................................................... 4
Psychological Injury ................................................................................................ 6
Benefits of Military Service .................................................................................... 7
Masculinity ............................................................................................................. 9
Stress ........................................................................................................................ 11
Coping ....................................................................................................................... 15
Coping and Personal Resources ........................................................................... 17
Coping and Social Resources ................................................................................ 17
Coping and Societal Resources ............................................................................ 18
Coping and Identity .............................................................................................. 20

Chapter 2 – The New Zealand Context ................................................................. 22
The First World War ................................................................................................. 25
Māori Participation .............................................................................................. 26
Enlistment ............................................................................................................ 28
Gallipoli ............................................................................................................... 29
The Western Front ............................................................................................... 35
The Somme .......................................................................................................... 36
Passchendaele ...................................................................................................... 37
Sinai and Palestine Campaign .............................................................................. 41
The Inter-war Years ............................................................................................... 42
Land Settlement ................................................................................................... 45
The Depression ..................................................................................................... 46
Māori Rehabilitation Assistance .......................................................................... 48
Second World War ................................................................................................. 50
Greece .................................................................................................................. 53
Crete ..................................................................................................................... 54
North Africa .......................................................................................................... 57
Italy ....................................................................................................................... 63
Pacific .................................................................................................................... 66
Post-Second World War ...................................................................................... 69
Work, Skills Training and Education ................................................................... 72
Land Settlement ................................................................................................... 74
Assistance for Disabled Veterans ......................................................................... 75
List of Tables

Table 1  Legislation, Government, and Other Aid in Favour of First World War Veterans ......................................................................................................... 43
Table 2  Legislation, Government and Other Aid in Favour of Second World War Veterans ........................................................................................................ 71
Table 3  Brief overview of Oral Histories ........................................................................................................... 107
Table 4  Summary of First World War Veterans .................................................................................................. 108
Table 5  Characteristics of First World War Veterans ............................................................................................ 108
Table 6  Summary of Second World War veterans ................................................................................................. 110
Table 7  Characteristics of Second World War Veterans ....................................................................................... 110
Table 8  Summary of Vietnam Veterans .................................................................................................................. 112
Table 9  Characteristics of Vietnam Veterans ....................................................................................................... 112
List of Appendices

Appendix A: Crown Apology to Vietnam Veterans .............................................. 262
Appendix B: New Zealand Defence Force Apology to Vietnam Veterans .......... 265
Appendix C: Interview Questions ....................................................................... 270
Appendix D: Oral History Projects ...................................................................... 274