Copyright is owned by the Author of the thesis. Permission is given for a copy to be downloaded by an individual for the purpose of research and private study only. The thesis may not be reproduced elsewhere without the permission of the Author.
DESTIGMATISATION:
A GROUNDED THEORY OF THE WORK OF SEXUAL HEALTH NURSES.

A thesis submitted in partial fulfilment of the requirements for the degree of Master of Philosophy in Nursing at Massey University.

Annette Mortensen
2000
The aim of this grounded theory study is to identify, describe, and generate a theoretical explanation of what it means to practice sexual health nursing care in New Zealand in the 1990’s and new century. Further, to investigate individual nurse’s experiences within the current sociopolitical climate of health care. Sixteen participants from six sexual health clinics in New Zealand were interviewed over a period of eight months and a total of 24 hours of tape recorded data were collected. Constant comparative analysis of data eventuated in the identification of four conceptual categories named as identifying, personalisation, respecting and dignifying, advocating and empowering, and doing deviant work. These conceptual categories were drawn together in the core category, which is termed destigmatising.

Countering stigma emerged as a recurrent problem for nurses in this study. An analysis of nurses’ counter reactions is compared to Gilmore and Somerville’s (1994) model of stigmatised reactions towards people with sexually transmitted diseases. The model describes the processes of disidentification, depersonalisation, scapegoating, and discrimination, which characterise stigmatised reactions. Destigmatising in the context of this study means that the nurse is engaged in the process of counteracting the prejudice and negative social attitudes towards people who attend sexual health clinics and who have sexually transmitted infections. The process occurs in the interactions between the nurse, the client and the community. This process is dynamic and reflects changes in patterns of social sexual relations in society and community attitudes towards these.

Essentially this study shows that nurses’ processes of destigmatisation are based on a complex of factors affected by the gender, culture, and sexuality of both the practitioner and the client. Nurses’ understandings of the impact of socioeconomic conditions and gender/power relations in society have an important role to play in how nurses manage care.

The understanding of client fears and anxieties, of underlying social attitudes and of the problems of marginalised subcultures and individuals is important information for practicing sexual and reproductive health nursing care. As well, nurses in this study encountered professional stigma. The practice of sexual health care results in being professionally marginalised. Implications and recommendations in regard to sexual and reproductive health nursing education, practice, and further research are made.
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This research was made possible with the support and encouragement of Sexual Health nurses in New Zealand who were generous and open in sharing their experiences and knowledge. My deep respect and admiration is extended to the study participants for their passion and commitment to this complex and challenging work.

This has been a two year process of intense reflection, which has been professionally, and personally demanding.

I have appreciated the encouragement, wisdom and commitment of Dr Gillian White who has worked with me as a thesis supervisor. A very special thankyou for your guidance, sensitivity and insight.

Appreciation is extended to the faculty of the School of Health Sciences, Massey University for providing a supportive and stimulating environment.

I am privileged to have Evana, my partner who has provided the space and support for me to complete this project.

I would like to acknowledge the financial assistance of the Australian Sexual Health Nurses Association, SmithKline Beecham Award and the New Zealand Nurses Education Research Fund.
Key to Interview Terms and Abbreviations

The following conventions used are presented here to assist the reader in their interpretation.

Name The personal names of research participants have been changed and pseudonyms used for identification.
Number The number of the interview and line of the transcript.
(...) Material which has been edited.
... Incomplete sentences without editing.
" " Single words, or short phrases/ sentences used by the interviewee.
' ' Words developed by the researcher or other authors.
[ ] Insertion of additional material to make context and/or meaning clear.
Client The term client has been used throughout this study.
STDs / STIs The abbreviations for sexually transmitted diseases and sexually transmitted infections are used. A sexually transmissible infection is the medically correct terminology, however the former term has more common colloquial usage.
VD The term venereal disease was the terminology formerly used to refer to sexually transmitted infections.
3. RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

Paradigms of inquiry for nursing research 58
A background of symbolic interactionism 59
The evolution of Grounded Theory 61
The methodology of Grounded Theory 63
The utilisation of Grounded Theory for the study of sexual health nursing care 63
The design and method of the present study 65
The study setting 65
Entry into the field 65
Participant selection 66
Procedures in which the research participants were involved 67
Procedures for handling information 67
The participants 68
Ethical concerns 68
Researcher involvement 70
Data collection methods 71
Data analysis 72
Establishing research rigour 78
Summary 80

4. DESTIGMATISATION 82

Destigmatisation 84
Understanding stigmatisation 87
The stigmatisation of sexual health 102
Summary 111

5. IDENTIFYING WITH PEOPLE 112

Getting into marginalised social networks 114
Creating open and accepting environments 126
Making services safe 132
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Summary</th>
<th>139</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>6. PERSONALISATION</td>
<td>140</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Getting close to people</td>
<td>141</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Making it a positive experience</td>
<td>150</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Finding the right empathic approach</td>
<td>154</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Minimising threats and fears</td>
<td>160</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Summary</td>
<td>167</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7. RESPECTING AND DIGNIFYING</td>
<td>168</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Treating people with care</td>
<td>170</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Treating people with respect</td>
<td>174</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Treating people with dignity</td>
<td>178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Restoring self worth</td>
<td>181</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Summary</td>
<td>184</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8. ADVOCATING AND EMPOWERING</td>
<td>185</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Working in the context of sociocultural realities</td>
<td>187</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Teaching survival skills</td>
<td>199</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reframing stigmatising experiences</td>
<td>204</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rebuilding futures</td>
<td>206</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Summary</td>
<td>214</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9. DOING DEVIANT WORK</td>
<td>215</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Being identified as different</td>
<td>217</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Experiencing professional marginalisation</td>
<td>223</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Speaking out</td>
<td>226</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Summary</td>
<td>233</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
10. DISCUSSION OF FINDINGS

The process of destigmatisation 235
Discussion of the theoretical framework 236
Integration of findings with the literature 240
Limitations of the study 249
Implications for practice 250
Implications for education 252
Implications for research 253
Concluding statement 254

APPENDICES

1. Letter to Managers of Sexual Health Services 257
2. Letter of Introduction to Prospective Participants 259
3. Information for Participants 260
4. Consent to Participate in Research Project 263
5. Confidentiality Agreement 264
6. Letter to Participants 265
7. Interview Guide, First Interviews 267
8. Interview Guide, Second Interviews 268
9. Interview Probes 270
10. Glossary of Maori Terms 272

REFERENCES 273
List of Figures

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Figure One</th>
<th>The Process of Destigmatisation</th>
<th>83</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Figure Two</td>
<td>Identifying with People</td>
<td>113</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure Three</td>
<td>Personalisation</td>
<td>141</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure Four</td>
<td>Respecting and Dignifying</td>
<td>169</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure Five</td>
<td>Advocacy and Empowerment</td>
<td>186</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure Six</td>
<td>Doing Deviant Work</td>
<td>218</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>