ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

In the course of researching and writing this thesis I have received help from many people. Firstly my Supervisor, Dr Margaret Tennant, and Professor W. Oliver of the History Department, Massey University. Their patient guidance, criticisms and helpful suggestions have at all times improved the quality of my work. I owe them a very great debt.

Many people have been generous in giving of their time and information, and often I have been lent material which proved of great value to my research. I would therefore like to thank Mr Eric Adye and Mr A.R. Smith of the ECDRA. Also Messrs Hudson, Goodsrir, Fryer and Evans of the Cook County Council. Mr Bryce McLoughlin of the East Cape Catchment Board, Mr Eric Amor of the Ministry of Works, Gisborne, Mr Mark McCallum, Ministry of Works, Wellington, and Mr John Johnston of the New Zealand Forest Service all contributed valuable information.

The librarians of the H.B. Williams Memorial Library, Gisborne and Massey University Library were exceedingly helpful in locating information. A special thank you must also be extended to the staff of the Gisborne Museum and Art Gallery, especially Mrs Sheila Robinson who patiently helped me sift through the extensive photo collection. The librarians of the Nelson, Greymouth, Westport, Invercargill, Timaru, New Plymouth, Napier, Thames, Kaitaia and Whangarei libraries must also be thanked for answering my written enquiries.

Many people have given their personal support to what turned out to be a rather long-term undertaking - to my mother and Owen I owe a debt which I can never repay for their never-failing support. To Sandy who became my husband during the course of this thesis, and who thus "inherited" it I say thank you for understanding. Likewise I thank Beverley who took the time to draw me the location map, and my friends who gave encouragement and contributed in so many ways. A magnificent contribution was made by Val Coburn - the long hours she spent deciphering and typing made this thesis presentable.

To everyone who helped towards the completion of this work I say thank you - without you all it could not have been done.
