Copyright is owned by the Author of the thesis. Permission is given for a copy to be downloaded by an individual for the purpose of research and private study only. The thesis may not be reproduced elsewhere without the permission of the Author.
Becoming a Baker:-
Factors Contributing to the Successful Completion of the National Certificate in Food Production – Baking (level 4) by Apprentices in the New Zealand Baking Industry.

A thesis presented in partial fulfilment of the requirements for the degree of Master in Education (Adult Education)

At Massey University (Wellington)
New Zealand

Selena Y-Ling Chan

2002
Abstract

Following the changeover from a Trade Certificate qualification to the unit standards based New Zealand National Certificate in Food Production – Baking (level 4), the number of apprentices completing a qualification in baking declined dramatically. Using sociocultural theories of learning as the context, case studies of apprentices who had completed the National Certificate at level 4 were studied to find out if there were significant factors that may be used by the baking industry to increase the number of apprentices who will complete successfully.

The findings show that personal motivating factors play a large role in encouraging an apprentice to complete. One of the main motivating factors is the need for the apprentice to "become a baker". Support factors provided to apprentices were also studied and the roles of the employer, workplace assessor and the ITO regional manager were all found to be important factors contributing to the eventual success of the apprentice.

This study concludes that in order for apprentices to succeed, not only must apprentices be self-motivated, but also the baking industry as a whole must take on the responsibility of ensuring that the members of the community of practice (that is the NZ baking industry) become conversant with the requirements for nurturing and guiding their apprentices towards the completion of the training, learning and assessments for obtaining National Certificate qualifications.
Acknowledgements

A special thank you to the bakers who took part in the interviews. Their insights and responses form the basis of this thesis. I am ever grateful for their forbearance and sense of humour as they put up with my first foray into the realms of the academic research processes.

My gratitude is also extended to the apprentices who filled in the questionnaire.

A very special thanks to Alison Viskovic (my efficient, patient and supportive supervisor). Thank you also to Linda Leach (for encouragement on academic writing), Guyon Nuetze (for changing my pre-conceived ideas about the role of assessments) and marg gilling (for her help in making sure that the correct procedures were followed to get my research proposal through the Massey University Human Ethics Committee).

My gratitude also to:
my parents (it's been a long wait),
my husband, Mark (for believing that I could do it),
my children, Jonathan & Joanna,( I hope that this sets them something to aspire to), colleagues at NZBTC (who were subjected to proofreading endless drafts) and to the WW writers group (for their advice on writing from the heart).

This project has been reviewed & approved by Massey University Human Ethics Committee, WGTN protocol 01/105
Contents

Abstract ................................................................................................................ i
Acknowledgements ............................................................................................ ii

Chapter 1

Introduction ........................................................................................................ 1
  1.1 Background ................................................................................................. 2
  1.2 The research questions .............................................................................. 5
  1.3 Structure of thesis ...................................................................................... 6

Chapter 2

Literature Review ................................................................................................ 8
  2.1 Part 1 - Review of studies undertaken by other researchers .................. 8
    2.1.1 Studies on apprentice completions .................................................... 8
    2.1.2 Studies of success ............................................................................ 14
    2.1.3 The role of motivation in success .................................................... 16
  2.2 Part 2 - Studies on apprenticeships and sociocultural aspects .............. 17
    2.2.1 Apprenticeships and a sociocultural context .................................... 18
    2.2.2 Competency based Assessments (CBA) and the Sociocultural Context
        ........................................................................................................... 23

Chapter 3

Research Methodology and Process .............................................................. 27
  3.1 Theory Underpinning this Research ....................................................... 27
    3.1.1 Choice of Research Approach ......................................................... 29
3.2 The Research Process ................................................................. 31
  3.2.1 Planning Overall and Timeline Taken .................................. 31
  3.2.2 Ethical Issues ................................................................. 32
3.3 Overview of the research process ............................................. 33
  3.3.1 Questionnaire ............................................................... 33
  3.3.2 Interviews ................................................................. 36
3.4 Some of the anticipated limitations of this research ............... 39

Chapter 4

Findings and Results .................................................................. 40
  4.1 Profile of Participants ......................................................... 40
  4.2 Findings ........................................................................... 43
    4.2.1 Findings and Results from Support Factors ................. 44
    4.2.2 Strategies used to complete qualifications .................. 60
  4.3 Review of findings and results as they relate to the research question .... 65

Chapter 5

Discussion, Interpretation and Recommendations ..................... 68
  5.1 Building a Community of Practice for Workplace Assessments .... 68
    5.1.1 Nurturing a new community of practice based on the new qualification requirements ........................................... 69
    5.1.2 Nurturing the managers and supervisors supportive of training .... 69
    5.1.3 Working through issues of equity ................................. 69
    5.1.4 The issue of information dissemination ......................... 70
    5.1.6 Improving apprentice peer interaction opportunities .......... 71
    5.1.7 Providing opportunities provided to apprentices to learn how assessments work ........................................... 71
  5.2 Becoming a Baker ............................................................. 72
  5.3 Some Recommendations for Change ................................... 72
Chapter 5

5.3.1 Employer and / or manager / supervisor support systems ................. 72

5.3.2 The importance of setting goals .......................................................... 73

5.3.3 Encouraging a spirit of competition ................................................... 74

5.3.4 Providing better mechanisms to obtain prompt feedback of unit standard completion ................................................................. 74

5.4 Comments on Research Questions .......................................................... 74

5.5 Possibilities for Future Research ............................................................ 76

5.5.1 The apprentices ................................................................................. 76

5.5.2 The supporting players ...................................................................... 77

5.5.3 The community of practice that is being formed around the new qualifications ..................................................................................... 78

5.5.4 The impact of Modern Apprenticeship Coordinators ....................... 79

5.5.5 The effectiveness of current systems ................................................. 80

Chapter 6

Conclusion ........................................................................................................ 81

6.1 Limitations and Implications ................................................................. 81

6.2 Bringing it together ............................................................................... 83

Bibliography ..................................................................................................... 85

Appendices

Appendix 1

Questionnaire /Survey Distributed to Apprentices

Appendix 2

Questions used to interview apprentices

Appendix 3

Information sheet for questionnaire / survey

Appendix 4
Information sheet for interview participants
Appendix 5
  Consent Form for Interviews
Appendix 6
  Copy of Evidence Guide
Appendix 7
  Copy of Colour Coded Training Guide
Appendix 8
  Copy of Index / Cover Sheet Detailing National Certificate Qualifications
Appendix 9
  Sample of Comments Section of Questionnaire / Survey Sheet
Appendix 10
  Sample of Page of Interview Transcript
Appendix 11
  Sample Page Showing Collation of Data Gleaned from Interviews and Comments Extracted from Questionnaire / Survey

List of Tables

Table 1................................................................................................................. 4

Table 2................................................................................................................. 40
  Group profiles of the pilot group, the apprentices who were surveyed and the apprentices interviewed.

Table 3................................................................................................................. 44
  Factors that support an apprentice working through his/ her qualification in order of importance

Table 4................................................................................................................. 45
  Employer support

Table 5................................................................................................................. 48
Work place assessor support

Table 6...............................................................51
  Regional Managers

Table 7...............................................................55
  Assessment and Training Material

Table 8...............................................................57
  Correspondence Course Provider

Table 9...............................................................58
  Block Course Provider

Table 10.............................................................59
  NZQA