Copyright is owned by the Author of the thesis. Permission is given for a copy to be downloaded by an individual for the purpose of research and private study only. The thesis may not be reproduced elsewhere without the permission of the Author.
Women's Encounters with Pornographic Texts: Encoding/Decoding and Resistance

A thesis presented in partial fulfilment of the requirements for the degree of

Master of Arts

in Media Studies
Massey University

Tracey Jennifer Adamson
1996
Abstract

The aim of the present study was to undertake audience research (from within the cultural studies paradigm) into ways that women watch pornography. Given that the dominant position within feminism towards pornography has been anti-pornography pro-censorship, the debate surrounding pornography within feminism has concentrated on harm-based analysis. My research is an attempt to address this imbalance, focusing instead on the possibilities of pleasure in pornographic imagery, and by asking specifically about issues that inhibit and generate pleasure in sexual imagery.

Using Stuart Hall's encoding/decoding model, the present study asked four groups of 3 to 4 women to respond to specific examples of hard-core male identified and women-identified pornographic images. Following viewing the clips each group entered into focus-group discussion concerning the way the images represented women, the degrees of identification with the women on-screen, and the possibility of pleasure in erotic imagery. Wider cultural considerations regarding cultural expectations and definitions of pornography and erotica were also discussed.

Textual analysis of the clips revealed that pornography is principally organised according to gender difference that privileged male sexuality over female sexuality. Women's responses to this 'preferred encoding' were organised according to whether the women agreed that pornography failed to offer pleasure for them as viewers, negotiated parts of pornography as pleasureable, or opposed the idea that pornography could not offer pleasure for women.

Whereas women are expected to abhor pornography, a view perpetuated by the harm-driven censorship campaigning of anti-pornography theorists, most of the women in this study negotiated pleasure in aspects of pornographic/erotic imagery. I found that although the text themselves do subordinate women's sexuality, women can and do take active pleasure in pornography. It was the textual construction of pornography that was found to be the most offensive aspect of pornography, as it is a construction of sexuality that often fails to represent women's pleasure and misrepresents women's sexuality.
Acknowledgements

Where do I begin? Thanks to Allen Meek my Supervisor for his amazing help and dedication given that he took on this project half way completed! Thanks for your support and providing the right balance between being a critic and encouraging me personally. Thank you also to Chris Watson for his advice and support.

Thank you to the amazing women without whom this study couldn’t have been completed. It takes courage to talk about sexuality. You were all really inspiring to me.

I’d also like to extend thanks to my flatmates and close friends who have been so good to me. You know who you are. Especial thanks to Sheryl Hann who has taught me what feminism is all about better than anyone else I have ever met. You are such a gem Sheryl.

Thank you to Jon. I know that you think you deserve a medal for putting up with me, for what it’s worth I agree! You’ve been a great sounding board and have tirelessly treated me to your best side when I’ve been positively venomous. You are wonderful.
TABLE OF CONTENTS

Abstract ii
Acknowledgements iii

CHAPTER 1 - INTRODUCTION 1

CHAPTER 2 - LITERATURE REVIEW-THEORIES OF PORNOGRAPHY 5

Pornography and the Notion of 'Harm' 5
Censorship? 7
Feminist Theoretical Conceptualisations of Pornography 10
The Problematised Viewer 13
‘Erotic Art’ and ‘Pornography’ 19
Challenging the Distinctions: Pornographic Art and Erotic Pornography 20
Women’s Interaction with Pornography - Towards Possibilities for Research 23
The ‘Dominant Ideology’ Thesis and Feminist Interpretations of Pornography 24

CHAPTER 3 - METHODOLOGY: ENCODING/DECODING 28

An Overview of Stuart Hall’s Encoding/Decoding Model 28
Redefining the Encoding/Decoding Model for Interpreting Data Concerning Women Watching 28
Pornography
Encoding/Decoding and Ideology 30
Audience and Cultural Studies 31
Pornography and Sex Role Stereotyping of Women 32
Justification of Themes in Encoding/Decoding Discussion 35
The Role of Pleasure and Resistance in Cultural Studies 38

CHAPTER 4 - METHODOLOGY: THE STUDY 40

Experimental Design 40
Focus Groups 40
Consciousness Raising as a Research Objective 42
Defending Focus Group Validity 43
Collection of Focus Group Data 45
Organisation of Focus Group Material 45
Participants 46

CHAPTER 5 - SEMIOTIC ANALYSIS 49

History of Pornography - Cultural, Social and Historical Developments 49
Background to Textual Analysis
Semiotics
Textual Analysis
Justification of Textual Choices
Overview of Films
Soft Core/Erotica - Basic Instinct and Baywatch
Baywatch
Basic Instinct
Pornography Made-for-Men
Deep Throat
Sex II
Gehgime Traume
Semiotic Analysis of Made-for-Men Pornography
Erotica for Women and Couples
Sacred sex II
Femme - Candida Royalle
Semiotic Analysis of Made-for-Women Pornography

CHAPTER 6 - A PREFERRED DECODING

Introduction to Discussion
Dominant, Negotiated, Oppositional Readings
The Process of Negotiation
Feminist group - a Preferred Reading
Definitions of a Pornographic Text.
Cultural Expectations
Issues of Interpretation, Identification and Representation
Issues of Interpretation and Representation in Pornography Made-for-Men
Issues of Identification and Representation in Pornography Made-for-Women
Pleasure and Resistance
Conclusion

CHAPTER 7 - NEGOTIATED DECODINGS

University Educated Group - a Negotiated Reading
Definitions of a Pornographic Text
Cultural Expectations
Issues of Identification and Representation
Issues of Identification and Representation in Pornography Made-for-Men
Issues of Identification and Representation in Pornography Made-for-Women
Pleasure and Resistance
Women's Motorcycle Association - a Negotiated Reading
Definitions of a Pornographic Text
Cultural Expectations
Issues of Identification and Representation
Issues of Identification and Representation in Pornography Made-for-Men
Issues of Identification and Representation in Pornography Made-for-Women
Pleasure and Resistance
Conclusion